1. An Introduction to CLIL for Parents and Young People	This booklet is about learning languages. It invites you to look at an approach which is called Content and Language Integrated Learning (CLIL). This approach involves learning history, geography or others, through an additional language. It can be very useful for language learners and other subjects, and developing in the youngsters a positive 'can-do' attitude towards language learners.

Introduction to CLIL4U

The Cil4U (CLIL implementation with pools of resources for teachers, students, and pupils) project has during the EC co-funded period produced materials that will assist implementation of CLIL in primary schools and in vocational colleges through:

- 6 promotional videos showing CLIL used in classes
- 48 ready to use CLIL scenarios complete with instructions and materials
- Online collection of materials and commented links to resources
- Advisory materials to be used for including parents of primary school children in the CLIL process.

To prepare content and language teachers for implementation of CLIL the project has:

- Developed a teacher course on application of CLIL
- Developed online language courses for content teachers (to ensure the needed language level)
- Offered the content teachers a placement test and certification of language level according to CEF.

All outcomes are available in English. Manuals, promotional materials, and video subtitles are available in all the partnership languages.

Hundreds of teachers, pupils, and students have piloted the developed CLIL resources. Evaluations and feedback were fed back to the developers and resulted in improved versions of the project outcomes.

All outcomes are CopyLeft and may be used by any institution. The partnership teacher training institutions and associated partners continue offering pre-service and in-service courses after the project period.

Project background

The project needs were based on several reports, e.g. Eurydice "Content and Language Integrated Learning (CLIL) at School in Europe 2006" which in "Factors inhibiting general implementation" points at a need for training language teachers in the special skills

In the first half of 2015 the project produced six videos that show pupils/students learning a subject through a foreign language. The videos serve as demonstrator of six of the scenarios, but also act as promotion / awareness raising material for the CLIL method and motivation for learning foreign languages.

This project has been funded with support from the European Commission.

This publication [communication] only reflects the views of the authors, and the Commission cannot be held responsible for any use which may be made of the information contained in it.

This course is for CLIL teachers who plan to attend the Main CLIL4U Course, which is delivered in English, or for any CLIL teachers who teach in English. It is designed to help you learn about English, and to give you a chance to practise it.

Each Unit describes one aspect of CLIL. You can experience CLIL for yourselves because content (information both about CLIL and about English) and language (practice using English) are integrated.

Each Unit has the following steps:

1. Read a text about an aspect of CLIL

This has been placed in CLILStore, which allows you to access a number of online dictionaries to look up any words you do not know.

- How to use CLILStore

2. Read a Language Focus, which tells you more about the language point covered in the Unit.

• "Technology will never replace teachers, but teachers who use technology will replace teachers who don't!" (Dr Ray Cliford, 1983)

New technologies become effective and relevant educational tools by allowing students to access new information, to connect with others, and to build links between their lives, their community and the world at large.

It is good pedagogy which drives education, not technology. However, technology is a tool to support learning. Its value is in enabling students to develop their thinking.

In the Module on Cognition, we looked at Bloom's Revised Taxonomy of Thinking Skills, which describes traditional classroom practices, behaviours, knowledge and actions. The Taxonomy has also been adapted to show how ICT tools and technologies can facilitate learning.

See the chart below:

Bloom's Digital Taxonomy lends itself especially to task and project based learning, where students work independently to solve problems and develop their own knowledge and skills.

Welcome to our CLIL4U Main Course!

This course is designed to help CLIL teachers learn about the CLIL approach to teaching.

During this course you will be asked to:

1. Discover an aspect of teaching through CLIL.
2. Download a Learning Diary where you will be asked to perform certain tasks and keep an electronic record of them - your e-portfolio.
3. Build up a framework of the components of a CLIL lesson in a Pre-Assignment Planning e-Record (PAPeR), before attending the face-to-face course on CLIL.
4. Reflect upon what you have learnt, to be able to discuss your experiences with other teachers on the CLIL4U course.

Click here to read instructions on what you will need to download to follow the course.

Enjoy the experience!

Welcome to the online part of the course ■

This course is designed to help Content and Language teachers learn about the CLIL approach to teaching.

During this course you will be asked to:

1. Discover an aspect of teaching through CLIL.
2. Download a Learning Diary where you will be asked to perform certain tasks and keep an electronic record of them - your e-portfolio.
3. Build up a framework of the components of a CLIL lesson in a Pre-Assignment Planning e-Record (PAPeR).
4. Reflect upon what you have learnt, to be able to discuss your experiences with other teachers.

Enjoy the experience!

Course authors: Sandra Attard-Montalto, Lindsay Walter and Douglas Matheson (Executive Training Institute - ETI Malta)

Instructions ■

Before you begin this course, please download the following documents. It would be useful to save all the downloaded documents in one folder.

- The CLIL4U Guidebook (available in six languages as eBooks or .pdf files): <http://languages.dk/clil4u/#Guidebook> This guide has been written to provide the theory behind, and practical applications of, the CLIL approach to teaching and learning. You will be referred to the Guide several times during the Online Course.
- Where necessary, answers to tasks can be checked. The Answer Sheet can be found at: <http://languages.dk/clil4u/courses/modules/AnswersSection.docx>
- PAPeR - Pre-assignment Planning e-Record. You will add to this at various points during the Online Course. It will provide the groundwork for the Course Assignment which will be set as part of the Course. Download the PAPeR: <http://languages.dk/clil4u/courses/modules/PreAssignmentPlanningRecord.docx>

Get started ■

Your main Course Assignment is to prepare a lesson with the full framework of the components of a CLIL lesson.

To provide you with the needed knowledge and competences for completing the Course Assignment you have ten online modules. Please note that all words in the texts can be clicked on for a quick lookup in dictionaries.
